School Partnership Committee Report

The School Partnership Committee has three presentations lined up for the fall school year. Final preparations are being made for author visits at both the Early Learning Center and Lord Baltimore Elementary School.

On Wednesday, October 25th, author, Nancy Viau will visit Lord Baltimore to present to Kindergarten and Grade 1 students. As she presents several of her books, Nancy will discuss the importance of using unusual words and how our senses become engaged thru reading.

The next day Nancy will visit the Early Learning Center. Her talk there will include snow-themed books and their similarities and differences.

On Friday, October 27th, author Lisa Schnell will give presentations to both the 2nd and 3rd graders at Lord Baltimore. After reading her “Hightide for Horseshoe Crabs”, Lisa will talk about writing and what it’s like to be an author, giving time for questions at the end.

Both Nancy Viau and Lisa Schnell are excited to share their time and talent with us. To read more about the authors, feel free to visit their websites:

The committee’s next endeavor will be to solicit additional authors for a spring presentation at both partnership schools.
